The Golden Book of Memory

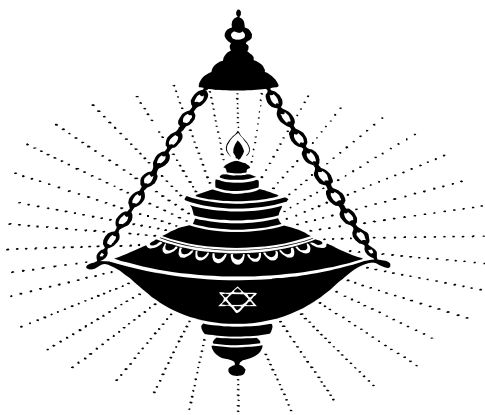

Yom Kippur 5784/2023

Death Cannot Be the End of Life

Death cannot be and is not the end of life. Man transcends death in many altogether naturalistic fashions. He may be immortal biologically through his children; in thought, through the survival of his memory; in influence, by virtue of the continuance of his personality as a force among those who come after him; and ideally, through his identification with the timeless things of the spirit.

When Judaism speaks of immortality, it has in mind all these. But its primary meaning is that man contains something independent of the flesh and surviving it: his consciousness and mortal capacity; his essential personality; his soul.

Psalm 23

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.
He makes me lie down in green pastures.
He leads me beside still waters.
He restores my soul.
He leads me in right paths for the sake of His name.
Even when I walk in the valley of the shadow of death,
I shall fear no evil, for You are with me;
With rod and staff You comfort me.
You have set a table before me in the presence of my enemies;
You have anointed my head with oil, my cup overflows.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life,
And I shall dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Viskor Prayer

Remember, O God, unto life eternal the souls of my dear ones who have gone to their eternal rest. Strengthen me in my loss, O God of mercy, that I may honor their memory by deeds of loving kindness to the living. Help me to maintain the ideals of their lives and to contribute in their spirit to the well-being of all and to the sanctification of Your name. Amen.

Beyond the Tomb

Ah, loved ones, do not fear the tomb,
The grave is not our final doom.
Let dreams of life eternal strengthen you.
There is no death for love where love is true;
The grave cannot destroy what never dies,
The soul within is linked with Paradise.

The love that lies in man can never die,
Though his weak frame be blanketed in dust;
The yawning grave—the couch on which we lie,
Is but a port for mortals tempest-tossed.
Beyond the flood of death goes sailing on
Man's deathless self; his soul is borne
To a canopy celestial where gently moves
The eternal Light of light; the Love of love.

Then weep no more, our tears are idly shed;
Deep in our hearts a glowing watch fire build
Whose flames will light the pathway overhead
And bring to us their voices death has stilled.
The handiwork of God is not in vain;
The dying sun expires to rise again;
So man is, from the hour of his birth,
A spark of God transferred upon this earth.
